

Below is a general project timeline depicting the Three Phases of the Web Design process with Solocin Media.

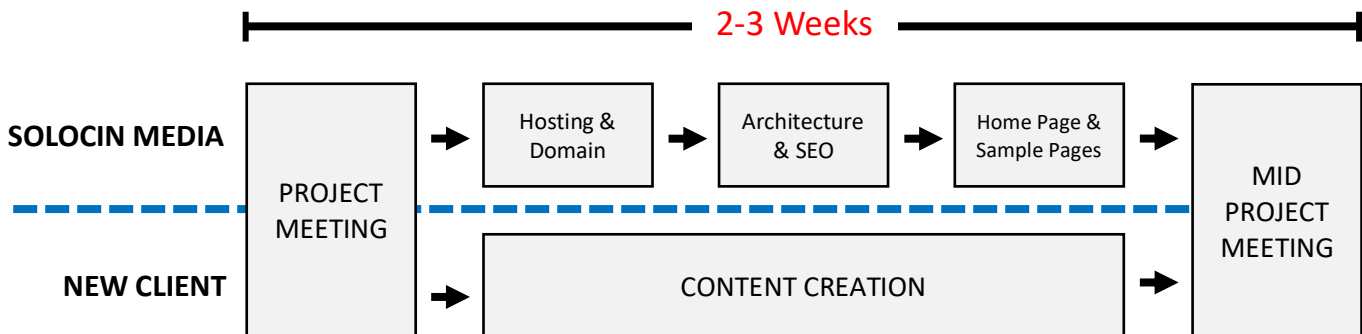

PHASE ONE:

In the First Phase, we will go over the answers to the questions proposed by the Introductory Packet. Solocin Media will then analyze the scope of the website and generate a quote reflecting the amount of work that will be needed in order to create the website. Once the quote is approved, we can move on to Phase 2.

PHASE TWO:

In the Second Phase, Solocin Media will begin developing the framework of the website as well as the initial design. Concurrently, the Client will be generating content for later insertion. Once the Client is fully satisfied and happy with the direction of the website (during the Mid Project Meeting), we can move on to Phase 3.

PHASE THREE:

In the Final Phase, once Solocin Media has inserted the content (with edits as needed) and optimized the website, we will review the site together. Upon approval, the website will be launched and the invoice sent.
